

- Pray and ask Yeshua to forgive you of your sins and
- Invite Him to be Lord, or the king, over your life.
- Promise to follow Him. Do this by studying His ways and imitating them.
- Thank Him for calling you and making you His own. And then tell somebody!
- Find yourself a Bible-believing congregation. Attend, and get involved.
- Read your Bible and pray every day. That is the way to have a relationship with Yeshua. Don't delude yourself that you have that relationship with Yeshua if you don't pay attention to Him. Yeshua warns in the book of Revelation that if you are lukewarm, He will spit you out of His mouth. He deserves much more than that.

So, let me make this easy for you -- (1) repent (2) receive (3) recall. Repent of your sins, Receive Yeshua, Recall and keep recalling all He has done and expects from you. Do it now, and if you have more questions, surely there is someone here who can help you.

So, this isn't goodbye, just "love ya, see ya later." (and thanks for the flowers)

Find a bible-believing congregation near you. You can also contact us for more information.

I have been to a lot of funerals lately, and a thing like that makes a person wonder. So, I decided to write my own eulogy. Maybe this will help you decide what your own last words to the world should be. Meanwhile, read this and tell me what you think! __ Linda

Dear Family and Friends:

At least that's who I hope showed up for my funeral. Not that I deserve for anyone to come, so welcome to any gloaters in the building, too, and thanks to every one who made the effort to be here.

I went to as few funerals in life as I could, because I always hated funerals, especially the part where we transform our memories of the warm, breathing person to the cold-as-marble corpse on display. If it's up to me, be sure, I asked the funeral director to put a huge, silly grin on my face, and maybe the clown nose, fake glasses and tiara I kept on my desk -- because someone should be enjoying themselves today, and I don't want it to be you!

I used to try to think of ways to take my material wealth (ha!) with me, and I think I figured it out. Use whatever money there is to hire mourners, so look around! Try to guess if the person next to you is being paid to be here.

And if there was any money left, for my cremation, I bought a designer gown a few sizes too small, so that it has to be cut to fit over my body. That way, it stays with me. I would never spend money on expensive clothing before, but I bet I look beautiful.

Even so, that's nothing compared to the clothes I am wearing now and they were very, very expensive, but I didn't pay for them. Someone else did that for me, out of His inheritance. Since I wrote this before I got my new robes, I can't tell you what they look like, but I know they are gorgeous and fit just right. The bible calls them "robes of righteousness" and only Jesus could get them for me. And that is exactly my idea of heaven, too, being with Jesus and sitting around in my robe all day. Well, the bible also says we will rule with Jesus, so maybe the sitting around part will lose it's appeal. Also, my cheap plastic tiara will be exchanged for something better, too, a crown of life.

I don't want any one to hurry this along, but my greatest desire in life and especially now, is that all of you join me here someday.

Maybe I wasn't bold enough to get your attention before, but now you sort of have to listen. Jesus' name in Hebrew is "Yeshua," and it means "salvation + God."

The whole of the Bible points towards Yeshua and the enduring love He has for us, since the beginning of time. Yeshua wants to have a love relationship with you, and He wants it so much, He gave up heaven for a time, was born of a virgin and died a cruel death on an execution stake (or cross) to atone, or pay for our sins.

Sin is anything that separates us from God, including not personally knowing Yeshua.

And then, just like the Bible prophets said He would, He arose again on the third day and is with us even now.

The Bible clearly tells us we don't know the day or the hour of His return, or when our time to leave earth will be.

So please, don't delay.
